Mothers And Daughters: An Anthology: The Hair Ribbons\Unforgettable (Steeple Hill Fiction Steeple Hill)

Synopsis

The Hair Ribbons by Deborah Bedford
The blue hair ribbons her mother gave her as a child saw Theia Harkin McKinnis through hard times. Now, facing the illness that took her mother, Theia longs to find the missing ribbons for her own daughters. Where Theia finds them--and with what--will change her forever.
Unforgettable by Linda Goodnight
Carrie Martin has a wonderful life--a loving husband, a sweet daughter and a feisty mother. But suddenly her mom can't remember little things...then big things. Shaken by the loss of family memories, Carrie turns to the Lord. And discovers what can't be forgotten.

Customer Reviews

I had no problem with this book, it was well written and inspiring. Then, I read the authors comments at the end. Ms. Goodnight is, in essence, passing judgement on all the Christian parents whose children chose the wrong path. She calls them bunglers and says how glad she is that she raised good kids. I once had a Pastor who told me that by the Grace of God, his kids are okay. He takes no credit. My heart goes out to the many Christian parents whose kids have taken wrong paths. If I were this author I would not be quite so smug.
